Anti-fascist essays on contemporary events, reports on individual cases of exiled anarchists or activists on trial, occasional poetry and cartoons.

2. The Baptismal Font of Cervantes and the Tomb of Cardinal Cisneros (Alcalá de Henares): Fascism destroys Spain's Art-Treasures. [Barcelona]: Information Service of the Spanish State Tourist Department, [1938?]. [10p.] staplebound pamphlet, 6.25 x 8.75 inches, "Property of People's World" rubberstamp on front cover. Illustrated with black and white photos of the damage to the historic structures caused by Franco's forces. (#295618) $45.00

3. El Boletín "Sia." No. 1 (Junio de 1945). Los Angeles: Local 74 de SIA (Solidaridad Internacional

Antifascista), 1945. 8p., printed on toned newsprint, very good. Scarce newsletter of California's main office for the international group, which was sympathetic to the CNT and the FAI in Spain. Much of the contents are devoted to a local festival that had been held on April 15, including the text of a speech delivered there by the writer Alfonso Vidal y Planas, who had gone into exile after the Spanish civil war. (#261577) $100.00

4. Brief House Organ Items from the Writers' War Board [twelve issues]. New York: Writers' War Board, 1944-1946. Twelve issues of the 8.5x11 inch newsletter, some issues with unevenly toned cover sheets. Numbers present are 16 through 28 (the final issue). (#306589) SOLD formed immediately after Pearl Harbor and chaired by Rex Stout, channeled the efforts of writers into the war drive. This newsletter collected contributions, some by famous authors or celebrities, intended to raise spirits for the war effort and remind the reader of the evils of fascism. Among the contributors here are Frank Sinatra (criticizing the Daughters of the American Revolution for banning Black performers), Upton Sinclair on plans for peace, several pieces by Rex Stout, Ingrid Bergman on her appreciation for American citizenship, actor Jimmy Stewart on buying war bonds, Joe Palooka cartoons, and other items meant to be freely used by editors of other publications at no charge.

The Board,

present are 1, 2, 4, and 5. (#306809) $450.00
Updates on Nazi attacks on Christian churches, particularly Catholic institutions. Also quotes from religious leaders who dared to criticize the regime, such as Count von Galen, Bishop of Muenster, who wrote in a pastoral letter that "Only superficial minds can fall into the error of speaking of a national God or a national religion, can perpetrate the madness of attempting to restrict the Creator of the whole world, the law giver of all peoples, within the confines of one nation, within the narrow limits of the bloodstream of a single race If anyone should dare to demand obedience to commands and instructions that run counter to the holy will of God, he misuses his power of command, he renounces the right to claim obedience." (Quoted in issue 1).

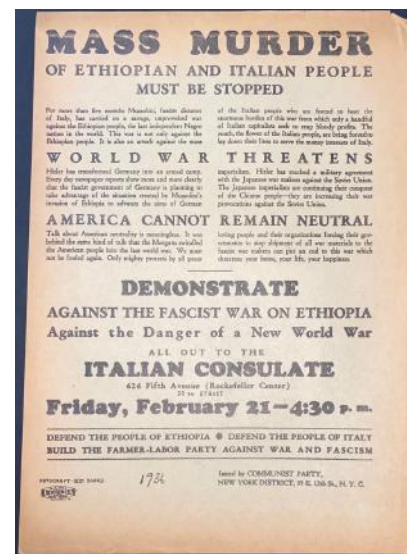

18. Justitia! Palermo: Priulla Tipografi, 1945. Four-panel broadsheet, approximately 11.5x16 inches, fold-creased, some closed edge tears. (#322855) SOLD

Photographs of Mussolini and other fascists who had been executed; most photos depict them while alive, but in a few cases they are portrayed after execution or while it was being carried out. Issuer unclear; dated May 22, 1945. Under a photo of Mussolini's corpse on the front panel is the statement, "Matteotti has been avenged," referring to the Socialist politician who had been executed by fascists.

19. Mass murder of Ethiopian and Italian people must be stopped [handbill]. New York: Communist Party, NY District, [1936].

8.5x11.5 inch handbill, paper toned, small corner chip at upper right, year penned in lower margin. (#320410) SOLD

 "For more than five months Mussolini, fascist dictator of Italy, has carried on a savage, unprovoked war against the Ethiopian people, the last independent Negro nation in the world. This war is not only against the Ethiopian people. It is also an attack against the mass of the Italian people who are forced to bear the enormous burden of this war from which only a handful of Italian capitalists seek to reap bloody profits. The youth, the flower of the Italian people, are being forced to lay down their lives to serve the money interests of Italy..." Calls on the reader to join a demonstration at the Italian consulate.

20. Netherlands News [102 issues, including index volumes and special supplements). New York: Netherlands Information Bureau, 1941-1945. 102 issues of the fortnightly bulletin published by the Dutch government in exile, discussing events in German-occupied Netherlands, the Netherlands West Indies, and the Japanese-occupied

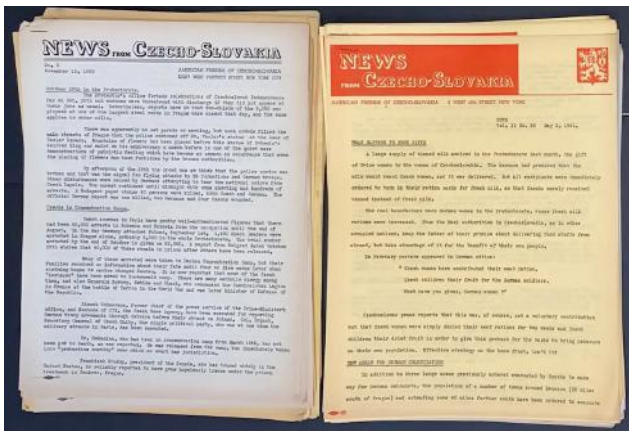

Netherlands East Indies. Generally very good with occasional uneven toning, though the later issues are occasionally more worn, and the last issue present has old tape repairs. Issues from volumes 4, 5, and 6 have cover cartoons by Harry Waters Armstrong and Albert Orbaan. Issues present are: Vol. 1 nos. 3-8 plus a brief index; Vol. 2 nos. 1-7 plus special supplementary issues 2a and 6a (the latter an illustrated geographical digest of the Netherlands East Indies); Vol. 3 nos. 1-7; Vol. 4 nos. 1-8; Vol. 5 nos. 1, 3-6, 8; Vol. 6 nos. 1-8; Vol. 7 nos. 1-8; Vol. 8 nos. 1, 2, 4-8, plus index issue; Vol. 9 nos. 1-6, 8, plus index issue; Vol. 10 nos. 1-8, plus 1-A, a Geographical Digest of the Netherlands; Vol. 11 nos. 1, 2, 4-8; Vol. 12 nos. 1-8; and Vol. 13 nos. 1, 2, 5-7, as well as an unnumbered, August 1944 Geographical Digest of the Netherlands East Indies.

(#311353) SOLD

These issues were all published after the German invasion of the USSR, and they reflect the YCL's newfound enthusiasm for the US to join the war.

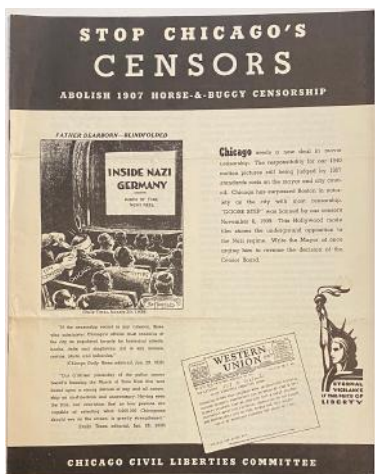

30. Slavonic Bulletin [11 issues]. New York: Slavonic Press, 1941. Eleven issues of the newsletter, the first issues in four-page, 8.5x11 inch format, printed on high quality paper, later turning into a tabloid format newspaper, evenly toned, one issue quite worn at the fold. Numbers present are vol. 1 nos. 9, 10, 14, 16-22, and 26. (#308544) $125.00 Reports on Nazi activities in occupied central and eastern Europe, as well as activities by exiled leaders.

31. Spartacus: orgaan van het Marx-Lenin-Luxemburg-Front [Seventeen issues, later changing the subtitle to "Orgaan van het Derde Front"]. Amsterdam: Marx-Lenin-Luxemburg-Front; Derde Front, 1941-1942. Seventeen issues of the clandestine newsletter published by revolutionary socialists under Nazi occupation. On the first issue, the title is spelled Spartakus, after which it becomes Spartacus. After the third issue, the subtitle changes to "Orgaan van het Derde Front." The issues appear in a variety of formats, apparently depending on the materials available. Issue 1 consists of eight mimeographed pages, horizontally folded; issues 2-7 and 9 are in tabloid newspaper format, with some tears (no. 2 is rather chipped and torn at the right margin). Numbers 15-17 are printed (no. 17 with pagination error), no. 19 is mimeographed in larger format (rather worn and toned, but complete), with a return to printing for the relatively skimpy issues 21, 22, 22a, 23, and 24. Number 24 appears to have been the final issue. Also included is a seven-page pamphlet, Spartakus ontwaakt! Het Derde Front marcheert" by Baanbreker [Henk Sneevliet], with horizontal fold crease. (#272179) $4,950.00

The MLL Front was founded by Henk Sneevliet, Willem Dolleman and Abraham Menist as an underground continuation of Sneevliet's Revolutionair-Socialistische Arbeiderspartij. (Sneevliet, under the name Maring, had been a Comintern representative instrumental in the founding of the Chinese Communist Party; he also worked with communists in what was then the Netherlands East Indies). After months of underground publication, the entire leadership of the Front was arrested by the Nazis and executed in April 1942. (The last issue present here is from mid-February of that year). One of the first resistance groups to emerge after the German occupation, the Front is believed to have had as many as 500 members. The pages of its newsletter included attacks on the anti-Semitic measures of the occupation government.

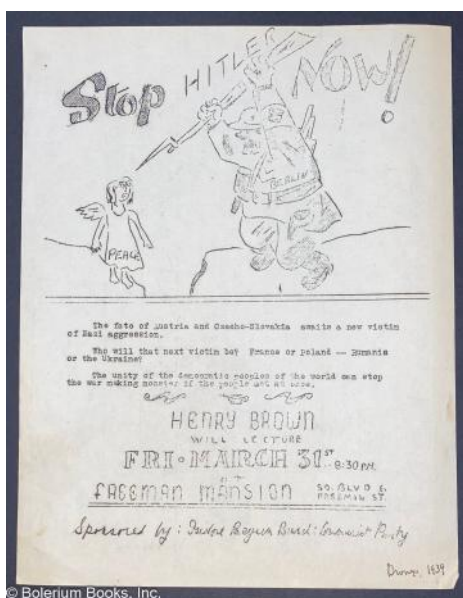

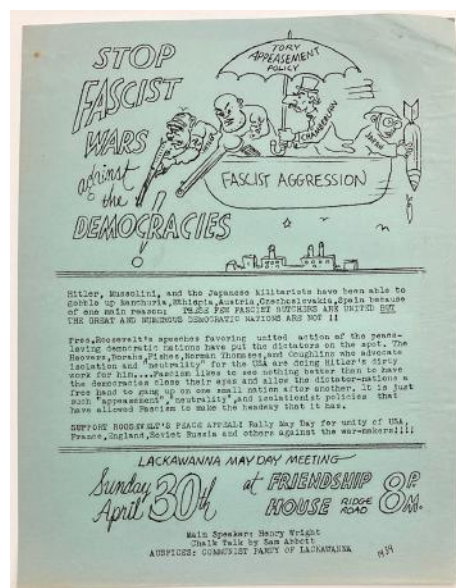

32. Stop Chicago's Censors. Abolish 1907 Horse-&-Buggy censorship. Chicago: Chicago Civil Liberties Committee, 1940. 8p., 8.5x11 inch pamphlet, minor handling wear, very good. Not found in OCLC as of February 2025, though there is an example in the Chicago City-Wide Collection at the Chicago Public Library. (#305874) SOLD

On the banning of anti-Nazi films because Chicago authorities held that showing them would violate US neutrality and foment anti-German sentiment. "Chicago needs a new deal in movie censorship. The responsibility for our 1940 motion pictures still being judged by 1907 standards rests on the mayor and city council. Chicago has surpassed Boston in notoriety as the city with most censorship. 'Goose Step' was banned by our censors November 6, 1939. This Hollywood made film shows the underground opposition to the Nazi regime. Write the Mayor at once urging him to reverse the decision of the Censor Board."

33. Stop Fascist wars against the Democracies [handbill]. Lackawanna, NY: Communist Party of Lackawanna, [1939]. 8.5x11 inch mimeographed sheet, date penned in corner, minor edgewear, otherwise very good, with cartoon depicting an airship held aloft by Chamberlain's "Tory Appeasement Policy" umbrella, from which Hitler, Mussolini, and Hirohito drop bombs and fire guns on a city below. (#310445) $75.00

Announces a May Day rally, with Henry Wrights as the main speaker and a "Chalk Talk" by Sam Abbott, and calls for support FDR's peace appeal to unite the democracies.

34. Stop Hitler Now! [handbill]. [Bronx, NY]: Isidore Begun Branch, Communist Party, [1939]. 8.5x11 inch handbill, toned, "Bronx, 1939" penned in corner, otherwise very good. (#321490) $75.00

"Announces a lecture by Henry Brown. "The unity of the democratic peoples of the world can stop the war making monster if the people act at once."

35. Voice of the Unconquered: newsletter of the Jewish Labor Committee [17 issues]. New York:

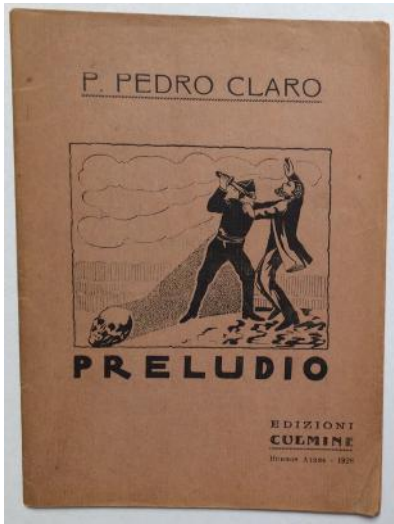

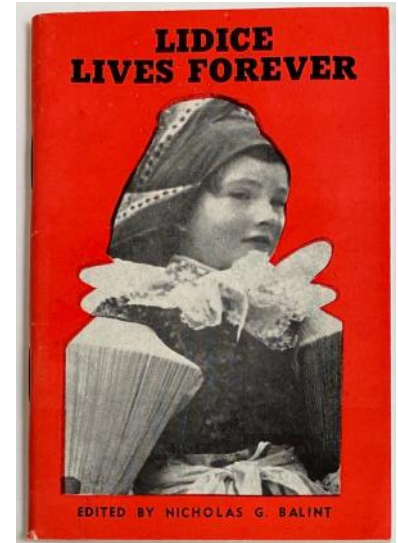

Jewish Labor Committee, 1943-1949. Seventeen issues of the staplebound newsletter, 8.5x11 inches, generally 8 pages, generally very good. Issues present are vol. 1 nos. 2, 4; vol. 2 nos. 4, 6-9; vol. 3 nos. 1, 2, 6/7, 8/9, 10/11, 12; vol. 4 nos. 1/2, 3/4; vol. 5 no. 1/2; vol. 7 no. 1. (#318668) SOLD

Reports on the underground labor movement in occupied Europe, including resistance to Nazi occupation, the uprising in the Warsaw ghetto, efforts to establish free ports in the US for refugees, etc. Postwar issues discuss such topics as rehabilitation of refugees, calls for Jewish rights on the international stage, and more.

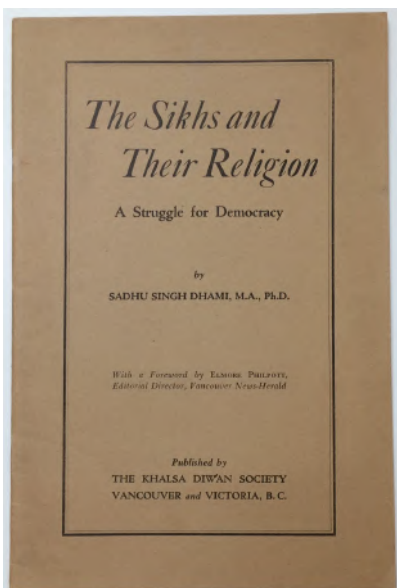

36. What do you mean Fascism? [handbill]. New York: American League Against War and Fascism, [1935]. 14 x 8.5 inch handbill, some stains. (#323803) $150.00

Study by The Institute for Propaganda Analysis, dissecting the rhetoric of the right-wing Catholic priest. (#290734) SOLD

44. Mariani, Mario. Le origini del fascismo. Paris: Cecconi Editore, 1927. 47p. staplebound pamphlet, pages toned, otherwise very good. I quaderni dell'antifascismo. (#299235) $85.00

45. Mussolini, Benito; Massimo Rocca; Gustave Hervé. Dio e patria nel pensiero dei rinnegati: Mussolini, Tancredi, Hervé. New York: Il Martello, [1924-?]. 133p., paperback, very good, top of pages unopened, a lovely example. "Il Martello" (The Hammer) was a weekly anti-fascist publication edited by Carlo Tresca. (#256441) $300.00

A collection of early texts on religion and nationalism by three former leftists who had become prominent fascists, illustrating their complete betrayal of their prior beliefs. The text of Mussolini's section is from a debate held in 1904; it notes that this book was published 20 years later, hence the estimated date of 1924.

46. Roy, Ellen. Why we support the war. Lucknow: Radical Democratic Party, 1942. 14p. pamphlet bound with thread, ownership stamp of Marshall Windmiller in corner of front cover along with stamp of the Modern India Project, with penciled note that it was a duplicate. (#286728) SOLD Responds to those in India who resist supporting the Allies because of their opposition to British imperialism, or even because of Indian appreciation of Hitler's vegetarianism. The author, born Ellen Gottschalk, was of German Jewish background; she married Manabendra Nath Roy and settled in India. They worked closely together until his death.

47. Saudino, Domenico. Sotto il segno del littorio. I. La Genesi del fascismo. Chicago: Libreria sociale, 1933. xvi, 381p. paperback, pictorial card cover separated from textblock but present; a candidate for restoration, though we leave this decision to the buyer. (#328205) $100.00
The best-known work by this Italian anti-Fascist exile.

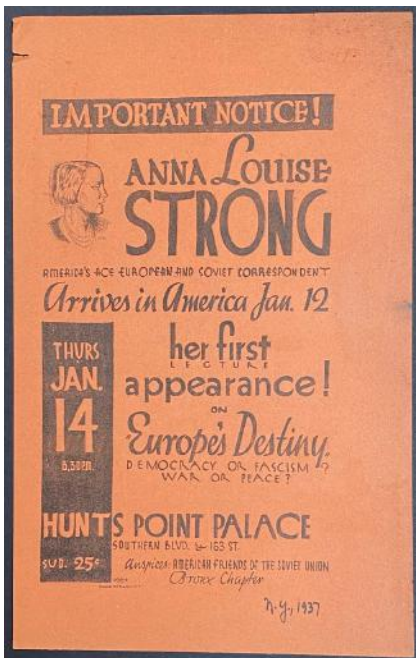

48. Solidaridad Internacional Antifascista. [Sheet of fundraising stamps, with slogan "Es vida otra vez"]. [Barcelona]: SIA, [193-]. Sheet of 9 stamps in the denomination of 50 centimos, rubberstamped with the cancellation of the Spanish section of the SIA to show that the donation had been received. Some minor splitting at a couple of perforations. Design features a woman revived by drinking milk. (#265649) $75.00

The SIA was a humanitarian organisation aligned with the CNT and the FAI in Spain. These stamps were sold to raise funds to assist refugees and to conduct other humanitarian work during the Spanish Civil War.

49. Solidaridad Internacional Antifascista. [Sheet of fundraising stamps, with slogan "Esto lo primero"]. [Barcelona]: SIA, [193-]. Sheet of 12 stamps in the denomination of 5 pesetas, rubberstamped with the cancellation of the Spanish section of the SIA to show that the donation had been received. Design features a hand raised to shield a child from falling bombs marked with a swastika and a fascist emblem. (#265673) $75.00

 Brief political biography of Hitler as perfidious scoundrel. Concludes with a cartoon depicting 1940 as "The End" for Hitler, who is being prepared for hanging at the gallows.

52. Jerome Stelmach: Buffalo victim of Fascist aggression [handbill]. Buffalo, NY: International Workers Order, [1941]. 6x9 inch handbill, paper toned, year penciled at bottom, otherwise very good. (#330864) $75.00

Stelmach "was the first Buffalo boy murdered by the enemies of our nation," having been aboard the USS Reuben James when it was sunk by the Nazis, before Pearl Harbor formally brought the US into the war. Announces a Stelmach Memorial Meeting including a speaker from the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, and promises that "Buffalo is determined to win this gigantic struggle against international gangsterism."

8.5x11 inch handbill printed both sides, horizontal fold crease, penciled notes in English state "Re Nazi-Soviet Pact" and "rec'd Sept. 1939."
 "Is the deal good for Jews? Some facts about the Soviet-German Non-Aggression Pact." Published after the Molotov-Ribbentrop Pact, an awkward time for Jewish Communists; argues that the Pact offers the best protection from fascism and war. (#318064) $150

53. Iz der opmakh gut far idn? Etlekhe faktn vegn dem sovetish-deytshn nit-ongrif ofmakh [handbill]. New York: New York Committee of the National Council of Jewish Communists, [1939].

"Farmers, agriculturists! Do you know what will happen if Hitler wins?" Warns that crops will be requisitioned by the Nazis, without compensation for farmers. A scarce survival of this pre-election leaflet urging a vote against Hitler. Cartoon depicts soldiers with swastika armbands roughing up a farmer as they pillage his barn.

Two issues of the staplebound magazine, the second one with cover chipping; text in Italian. Scarce publication in Italian, with a small English section. Both issues include heated and highly personal invective against Carlo Barsotti, the Italian-American publishing magnate, describing him as a contemptible fascist.
